DIY VANITY MIRROR INSTRUCTIONS

Part 1: Rose Gold Frame

STEP 1 Measure border around mirror and mark with a mirror safe marker. I've measure 4" for my mirror but feel free to make a depth that works for yours!

STEP 2 Use a straightedge to draw square frame.

STEP 3 Tape and cover inside mirror making sure there are no exposed areas showing.

STEP 4 Take your mirror to a well ventilated space (garage or outside) and carefully spray the exposed frame. Cover until you are happy with the look.

TIP Stay about 1 foot distance from the mirror and use short bursts in the same direction. Continue this until fully covered. Yes, this take a while but this will ensure you have even coverage and zero paint pooling.

STEP 5 Let dry. Cover border with a clear coat spray paint.

STEP 6 Remove tape and inside cover - VOILA!

Part 2: Lights

STEP 1

Peel and stick your vanity lights evenly around the frame and attach together. Well, that was easy!

Most light kits will have loose wire exposed between each light. I've simply pulled mine to the back side of the mirror and secured with tape. Any wire exposed on the front, I've painted a fun copper color.

Plug in and enjoy!

Part 3: Desk Topper

If you own a desk with a glass top that sits on the wood top, a simple way to add some personality and flare is to add a piece of wallpaper or personalized paper underneath.

STEP 1

Stamp

Print out or draw your stamp design to desired size. We used a moon icon for ours. Place a piece of transfer paper (find at sewing or craft stores) between print out and stamp carving block (use the quick speedy blocks) and trace over design.

Using a lino cutter, carefully carve away the block material from the design. Start with smallest blade and work up to bigger blade. All you need left is the raised design, trim away any extra material.

Hot glue your rubber stamp to a scrap piece of wood. This makes it easier to hold your stamp, plus you can keep your stamp and use it many times. Win/Win!

STEP 2

Print

Cut and measure the paper roll to the size of your desktop. Using an ink pad, stamp any pattern you wish on your paper roll. Stamps are not perfect, embrace the uneven prints you make as part of the design. If you can't find an ink pad, you can use paint by brushing on a colour as evenly as possible, and wipe away excess between stamps.

DIY MAKEUP ORGANIZER

Makeup organizers are a great way to organize your makeup and keep it on display! A lot of trendy makeup organizers can be costly, so I visited my local dollar store and found cute clear makeup organizers that only cost me a total of $5 to buy.

I then personalize the organizers with spray paint!

STEP 1

Provide a light sand over the surfaces using a 300-grit sandpaper. The idea is to rough up the surfaces (just a little) so that your spray paint has something to grab onto.

STEP 2

Prep your organizers in a well ventilated space, and protect your table surfaces with a drop cloth or throw away paper.

STEP 3

Evenly spray paint the organizers until fully covered. Try and create an even spray across staying about a half a foot of distance away from the object. Doing small sprays vs heavy sections help avoid pooling with your paint.

LET DRY!

STEP 4

Spray a clear top coat on your organizers to make sure the paint is locked in an more durable for everyday wear and tear.
